Norfolk Packet.

ABEL WILLIS

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of Alexandria, and the Public in general, that he has lately purchased the fast sailing and strong Sloop ROSANNA, and intends to run her as a constant Packet between this town and Norfolk.—This vessel is particularly well adapted for passengers, having an elegant and commodious cabin, with private accommodations for ladies. He pledges himself, that he will spare no pains to give general satisfaction. He is determined to furnish the best provisions, and will be particularly attentive to those who may honour him with their favours.

She will sail, wind and weather permitting, the latter end of this week. For freight or passage apply to Abel Willis, Prince-Street, or on board the Rosanna, who will constantly lay (while in this port) at Harper's Wharf.

October 15.

GLOBE TAVERN.

THE subscriber wishes to dispose of the Lease which he now holds of that valuable property the GLOBE TAVERN, in the Town of Alexandria. The extreme ill health which himself and family have experienced since their removal from the lower parts of this state, is the only motive which could induce him to resign so advantageous a situation.

NOTICE.

ELISHA JOHNSTON, alias GEORGE WILKES, who now lays in the gaol of Winchester under condemnation for horse stealing, deposited in my stable, on July 25, a likely bay HORSE, about 15½ hands high, three white feet, a small star in his forehead, and his right ear appears to have been bit, so that the point falls down. The owner is desired to prove his property, pay charges, and take his horse away, otherwise he will be sold on the 24th inst. for his expences.

FROM THE SALEM GAZETTE.

CAPT. GILES, TO MR. PICKERING.

MR. CUSHING,

As you have published the letter of the Secretary of State, written to me in consequence of my protest, I request you to insert the following copy of a letter, which I have transmitted to him in reply.

EBENEZER GILES.

Beverly, Sept. 11, 1799.

SIR,

Your letter of the 13th ultimo, came to hand on the 28th; the contents of which very much surprised me; as well as your previously having sent a copy of that letter to Mr. Goodhue, requesting him to read the same in the public insurance office at Salem; which was received and read several days before the original came to hand—being the only means of placing the brand of infamy on my character among strangers; but it happily serves only to raise the curiosity of those strangers to enquire who I was, what was my character, what deportment I carried through life, and from what origin I sprung; which gave rise to great speculative arguments on the subject. You say, that you received a letter from captain Truxton, dated at Basseterre, St. Christopher's, May 7th, 1799, giving you a statement of that occurrence; which statement seems to have been forwarded in consequence of a representation having been received by captain Truxton from the captain of the ship Thomas of Baltimore. The only representation which could possibly have been made, was from what he (the captain of the Thomas) saw himself, as I spoke with no vessel on the subject whatever. I was once boarded on the passage by a privateer of 14 guns, which was on the 1st of May, and the only time on the passage; but I observe that it is intimated in your letter that the representation of the fact was from me, which is entirely erroneous. I did not make it public even in the place of my residence; nor was it known until it was mentioned by seamen passing through the town, who were on board the schooner Fair Lady, of Boston, in the fleet, and saw the transactions; when passing through Beverly, they enquired whether captain Giles's schooner had arrived, and whether he was living; which led to farther enquiry on the subject; and they (the seamen) then told what they saw, and I was immediately censured by every one who heard of it, for not entering a protest, (which they supposed was not done). I then informed several who inquired of me, that I had entered a protest, and hoped that there was a prospect of receiving some satisfaction for so great a national, as well as private insult and abuse.

The exchange of the printed signals for the written ones, most certainly, as you mention, was very reasonable; but such a proposition I never heard, nor was it proposed to me; and as for the number of the ships under the Daphne's convoy, there were no more than 32 vessels.

As for the abuse that you represent as given by me to the captain, it is entirely without foundation—Not a word was mentioned by myself to him: nor did capt. M. to my knowledge, call in question any thing relative to the French; nor any character did I hear mentioned, but damn'd rascal, and boatswains mate; and as for ordering me out of the ship, or telling me that I was in liquor, it is of his own fabrication, calculated to screen that base act which he expected to be called to an account for.—He likewise says, that he ordered one of his men to start me from the quarter deck into the boat. That man was a boatswain's mate, called from the forecastle, and ordered to take a rope's end, and give it to the damn'd rascal. I then asked the captain of the Daphne, whether he meant to strike me, and whether I was not permitted to speak in my own behalf? when again the damn'd rascal was repeatedly followed by stripes from the boatswain's mate, and strokes from the captain himself with his fist, which continued until the said mate was tired out, and his strength nearly exhausted: then a second boatswain's mate was called from whom I received 47 stripes of a rope, of about two and a quarter inches, which I supposed from its place, to have been the fore and aft crojack brace—the captain still continuing his malicious strokes of the fist, much more severely than ever has been represented by me, either in my protest or verbally.

You observe, what serves to confirm the explanation given by you, &c. is, that captain Matson declared upon his word of honor that it was false. You may naturally suppose that that man, who would be guilty of so base an action, has honor but to sport with, and deceive the credulity of mankind.

As for what I have stated in my protest, as well as what is contained in this, it is as true as that there is benevolent God in the heavens; and shall truth be falsified and expunged because I have not an affluent fortune to support my cause, and by the failure be obliged to bear with an insulting beating from every captain of a warlike ship I meet? No, never—God forbid that I ever should be under so great a yoke of tyranny as to be debarred from the benefit of the laws of human society, and more particularly those of my own country!

If you will barely take the trouble to write to admiral Harvey, and request him to examine the officers of the Daphne, he will (as well as you) be convinced of the truth of my assertion, which is supported by the oaths of three men besides myself; and what they affirm to, is what they saw themselves.

Sir, your opinions, according to the tenor of your letter, entirely founded on the account received from capt. Truxton, who speaks of capt. Matson as a companion, in which manner their interviews have been held, as one is led to imagine; but if you will but reflect for one minute, you will perceive the justness of my cause by the fraudulent representation which capt. Matson has made. He knowing or imagining that there would in future be some notice taken of it, endeavored to soothe the offence, and lull the injury done, by an application to his friend capt. Truxton, who he conceived must have a good interest in the executive department of the states, more particularly as he was employed by it on that station in those islands, and having perhaps previously deported himself in that character to him, which capt. Truxton represents in his letter to you; and that he might imagine, from their previous mutual friendship, capt. Truxton would exert his best abilities to overbalance my evidence, or even the strongest proof that was in my power to procure, in the department of government, as well as the public mind, which thus far has proved effectual. Yet I doubt not that if a representation, as I previously made mention of, was made, that some one or more of the officers of the ship Daphne, might be found, of sufficient virtue and candor to declare the truth; and that truth, if obtained from the offending party, seems to be the only thing wanted to procure justice.

Had I had the good fortune to have reached the island of St. Christopher's (which I should have done, had I been able to have stood the deck, as my people were all on the decline of health, myself and mate being the only two who were in health on our departure from Layon Bay, and by that means we were not enabled to tend our vessel sufficiently to ply the wind) I should not have had any farther trouble of proof to send forward to you; but as capt. Matson supposed the charge against him came second handed, and with voucher, he might deny it with propriety, there being no one who would take the trouble to support the fact, then present; and to make his story more plausible, he has even asserted that I was in liquor. Most certainly he must be a bad minded man, or he would not continue his atrocities: he first nearly took my life by his beating; then his second resort is levelled at my character. He is a base man, and one that ought to be brought to the bar of justice; but unhappily it is seldom that justice can be obtained by a poor man from one who is in affluent circumstances, and more particularly who has a friend to palliate the accusation that is brought against him. Still I flatter myself that this affair will be exposed in its true colours, and reparation given for the national insult against my country.

I observe with astonishment, that you admit that I was beaten; but you are undetermined as to the manner or violence of that beating. The next thing to be considered is, by what authority did he even strike me. If I had offended, certainly it was his business to make a representation of it to the government of my country, which would no doubt be prompt to render justice.

It is impossible for me to imagine what further proof you can expect from me more than I have forwarded to you; the only evidence that it is possible for me to produce is that of my ship's company, three of which have sworn to the protest (the mate and two seamen); I had but one more white man on board, who has lately arrived from sea, that has been kept under quarantine at Boston, and I have not as yet been enabled to see him; but if it should be necessary, I shall procure his deposition and forward it to you, after being advised of your farther opinion on the subject.

Sir, your most obedient,
Humble servant,
EBEN'R GILES.

Timothy Pickering, Esq.
Secretary of State.

BOSTON, OCTOBER 8.

OF PRUSSIA.

From the Prussian city, Embden, we have advice to the middle of August, preparations were then there making, to cooperate powerfully in the projected invasion of the Batavian republic. The heir to the stadtholdership of Holland was present. This news appears deserving of general belief. It now remains for politicians to decide, whether Frederick can assist in driving the Gallic general Brune, and his armed countrymen, with him, out of Batavia, without commencing or incurring a war with the French republic.

From Cape Francois.

A gentleman recently from thence, mentions, that several French letters of marque were there, loading with coffee; and expected to sail soon. The United States frigate Bolton, was cruising round the island.

THE ENVOYS.

Preparations for their departure continue to be made. A gentleman who was in company with chief justice Ellsworth a few days since, informs us, he was making his arrangements.

From Halifax.

By the sch'r Betsey, from N. Scotia, we were favored with Halifax papers to September 21. Of their contents the following only is news to us:

Halifax, September 19.

Saturday arrived the brig Nymph, captain Pryor, in 22 days from St. Vincent. On his outward bound passage, Capt. Pryor re-captured an American schooner with lumber, and carried her in with him. On his passage home, the 30th August, in lat. 26, 00, N. long. 64, 00, W. he fell in with the French privateer schooner Courageaux, of 12 guns and 90 men, with an American brig she had captured the night before. On the Nymph bearing down on the privateer, she crowded sail, made off, and abandoned her prize. Capt. Pryor took possession of her, and she proved to be the brig Sally, from Baltimore bound to Laguira. She arrived here on Tuesday—In lat. 29, 30, long. 64, 00, Capt. Pryor fell in with the wreck of a schooner, on her beam ends, with all sail set, and American colors hoisted, but could not find any papers, as her stern was so much under water as to prevent their getting into her cabin.

Saturday arrived the ship Gadsden, from Newport, sent in for examination by his majesty's ship Pheasant.

September 21.

By a gentleman who arrived here on Thursday last, in nine days passage from Newfoundland, we learn, that the Pluto sloop of war, had just returned there from a cruize—the captain of which informed, that he had fallen in with a Danish ship—that the Dane reported, that he had seen three French frigates cruising just on this side the Azores, or Western Islands.

The Orlando, of Boston, sailed from Surrinam, under convoy of the United States brig Scammel, arrived at New-York. Left there, the Diamond, of Boston and Union of Newburyport, just arrived. The Scammel has undoubtedly brought letters from commodore M'Neil for the secretary of the navy. Her passage was 30 days.

NEW-YORK, OCTOBER 11.

As soon as the archduke Charles received the capitulation of Mantua, says the Frankfort Gazette of August 6, he sent it to Massena, at his head quarters in Lenzburg. The courier who brought it stated, that when he came away, 18,000 men of the besieging army had broke up in 2 columns, one by Brescia and the other by Milan, to march to Switzerland. In consequence of which Massena is expected to evacuate that country without hazarding a battle. General Szarray's corps, it is thought, will likewise advance thither.

OUR ENVOYS.

"We have it from good authority that orders from the president have been received by the envoys to France, suspending the time at which they were to have embarked for that country."

PHILADELPHIA, OCTOBER 11.

The following letter from captain John Thompson, of the ship Concord, of this port, to his owner, has been received via Copenhagen, and dated

"Isle of France, March 18, '99.

"After leaving Canton on the 28th November last, has proceeded on thro' the straits of Sunda, &c. until the 6th of February in lat. 34, 46, south, long. about 17, East of the Cape of Good Hope, we unfortunately fell in with a frigate from this place, called La Prudente, captain Jolliff, who after examining my ship's papers, bills of lading, &c. and finding them perfectly clear, sent me on board to proceed on my voyage, which was readily complied with; but about two hours after making sail the frigate hauled towards us again, and ordered us to heave to; a boat with three officers came on board the Concord, and immediately ordered the supercargo or myself to repair on board with the ship's papers.

"Accordingly Mr. Dobell, who had charge of the invoices, &c. went, and was detained on board during the night. I was informed by an officer on board, that after my acquittal, the officers and volunteers who were numerous, not being satisfied with the dismissal of the ship, insisted on the captain's scuttling us here, which might prevent our giving information about the Cape. After arguing near two days, we were sent off, they taking out my first officer and seventeen of the crew, (the best men) and put on board as many more, with whom we came peaceably to this place, where we arrived the 10th instant. Our business goes on as well as can be expected at this place. It is thought nothing will operate more strongly against us than the richness of the ship, but fear we shall be detained, even should the ship and cargo be cleared, unless some favorable news should arrive respecting the two countries. I shall endeavor by every opportunity to inform you of our situation.

Your obedient servant,
JOHN THOMPSON.

LONDON, AUGUST 19.

On Saturday an order was sent to the custom-house taking off the embargo on all British vessels, but not on foreign ships. This distinction, which policy perhaps may demand, has given rise to much severe complaint by the foreigners, who say that it gives to British ship owners an advantage over them in foreign markets, and unnecessarily loads them with heavy expences. We imagine that there is some error in the report, and that the embargo is only taken off from our own coasting vessels, as great inconveniency has been suffered by stopping the transit of provisions, coals, and manufactured goods from the different ports.

AUGUST 20.

We are happy to have it now in our power to state, that the expedition which sailed from this country last week, suffered no material damage, in consequence of the late heavy gales of wind; and that advices have been received, that the troops on board had made good their landing at Bremen, to co-operate with the Russian forces.

Thus the public anxiety respecting the place of the destination of our expedition is satisfied; and at the same time we are enabled to form a clear and precise opinion respecting the plan intended to be pursued. Bremen, situated upon the Weser, belongs to our king as elector of Hanover, and is the best possible place which could have been fixed upon for the landing of our troops. While it secures them a footing on the frontiers of Holland, from which their operations may be commenced with the greatest advantage, it also is a convenient situation in which they may wait the arrival of the Russian forces. If it be true that a division of these forces had reached Lubec, they will soon be able to join our expedition, as Lubec is only about 80 miles north east of Bremen, and as it is not at all probable that their march thro' Holstein will meet with any opposition. When this junction is formed, the united forces will proceed through the counties of Oldenburg and Embden, to attack the provinces of Groningen, Friesland and Overyssel, while the second part of our expedition will create a powerful diversion in Holland or West Friesland.

The Duke of York, with his aid de camps, yesterday left town for Barham Downs, to hasten the preparations now making for the sailing of the remainder of our troops; and it is expected that in a few days every thing will be in readiness for their departure.

The North has often over run the South. Let it once but save it and the account will be clear. As for any blame attached to the combined powers, it is an absurdity; for the cause of justice, humanity, and religion, are all united in resisting the efforts of the new sect of unprincipled philosophers, who pretending to reform every thing, overturn every thing, and forget how to reform themselves.

The want of news from the expedition to Holland continues to torture the imagination of our journalists. Some of them are sending it to Ems, which is not without some degree of probability. But they suppose that the king of Prussia cannot suffer them to disembark without breaking his system of neutrality. This is an error founded on ignorance of the situation of the country. The expedition is not obliged to disembark at Embden on the right bank of the river, which depends upon the king of Prussia, and there is nothing to hinder it from landing on the left bank, in the province of Groningen, which is one of the united provinces. They are besides impatient lest the Russian troops should not arrive, and they suppose that the court of Denmark will refuse them a passage thro' the Sound. Is it probable that the convoy would have put to sea, if they had had any reason to fear such an inconvenience? Every thing is explained by the positive news that we gave yesterday morning, that the Russians did not sail from Revil till the 20th July, and not the 20th of August, as was stated by a typographical mistake. We expect to receive more detailed news by the next Hamburg mail, stating that this armament has reached the mouth of the Baltic.

The political atmosphere has often been more obscured, but it has never been so crowded as at the present moment. The fate of Italy, of Germany, and of the whole of civilized Europe, are in the fore ground, and in the back is the army of Egypt and the once famous Buonaparte.

The north of Europe, Denmark excepted, has joined the coalesced world; perhaps the Danes are still what they were in the 9th century, but if they are not, they ought not to join or to patronize plunder and rebellion. A year ago such monarchs were pardoned, from the idea that they were afraid, but now that fear is no longer the order of the day, they ought to act as men if they cannot act as kings.

TORBAY, AUGUST 17.

In Switzerland, all remained inactive up to the 4th of August; no enterprize has taken place on either side; not even a change of positions. From Baden to the Lake of Lucerne the imperial army was 50,000 strong: the right wing, from Zurich to Baden, is commanded by general Hotze, and the left by general Jellachich. Zurich has a strong garrison under gen. Petrasch. The archduke Charles who commands the centre, has still his head-quarters at Klotten; the country air agrees best with his precarious state of health. On the left of the Limmat, answering to these positions, the French have 70,000, their front is covered with abbatis and redoubts.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

LONDON, AUGUST 31.

We at length have it in our power to relieve in some measure the public anxiety in regard to the armament on the coast of Holland.

This day, at one o'clock, admiral lord Duncan's first lieutenant arrived at the admiralty, with dispatches from his lordship, containing the important intelligence of the British forces having taken the fortress of Helder, on the coast of Holland, by storm. The enemy in the conflict are said to have lost 1500 men; and, we lament to say, the loss on our side is stated at 500 men in killed and wounded, chiefly belonging to the guards.

Among the officers killed, whose deaths it is afflicting to record, are Col. Smollet of the guards, and major Haye of the artillery.

General sir James Pultney, and Mr. John Hope, are among the wounded.

The troops began to disembark on Tuesday morning last at two o'clock, and the action between the enemy and the British forces, lasted till 4 in the afternoon.

SEPTEMBER 3.

At a very late hour yesterday afternoon, when a considerable part of our impression was worked off, we stopped the press to announce the arrival of Captain Hope, first captain to admiral lord Duncan, and capt. Oughton, first captain to vice admiral Mitchell, with dispatches for the admiralty; and of colonel Maitland of the guards, with dispatches from general Abercrombie to Mr. Dundas, containing the official details of the success of our gallant troops in Holland, with the farther intelligence of the surrender of part of the Dutch fleet.

SURRENDER OF THE WHOLE OF THE DUTCH FLEET!

Our readers will see by lord Duncan's letter, that he had no doubt of the remainder of the Dutch fleet being at the time of his arrival in the possession of admiral Mitchell.

As there is a greater depth of water on that side of the Mars Diep which is next to the Helder Point than on the side close to the Texel Island, our line of Battle ships were enabled to follow the Dutch fleet into the Texel, when those already mentioned in the Gazette surrendered. Admiral Mitchell in his letter to lord Duncan, states, that he was determined to follow the remainder even to the walls of Amsterdam, and the gallant admiral has indeed kept his word, for this forenoon an officer of the navy arrived at the admiralty with an account of his success. The admiral after the first surrender of part of the Dutch fleet, as stated in the Gazette, sailed up the Texel with eight sail of two deckers, and moored his ships along side the remainder, the whole of which, viz. EIGHT SAIL OF THE LINE, AND EVERY OTHER SHIP IN THE TEXEL, HAVE SURRENDERED.

The following is the official notice sent to the lord mayor, Lloyd's Coffee house, and to the members of administration:

"Admiralty Office, Sept. 10,
"Ten minutes past one.

"Lieutenant Collior has just arrived with an account of the surrender of the Dutch fleet, consisting of

One of Seventy Four Guns,
Five of Sixty Eight,
Two of Fifty Four,
Two of Forty Four,
One of Thirty two, and
One of Sixteen,

Without firing a gun."

The Park and Tower guns were fired at two this afternoon on the happy occasion; and the admiralty and all the public officers are preparing for a splendid illumination, which is expected to be very general throughout London and Westminster.

We stated in our paper of yesterday, that a French journal of a late date had been received in town, containing an account of the total defeat of general Joubert's army, by marshal Suwarrow. We now learn that this paper, the only one in town, is in the possession of government. The battle is said to have taken place at Novi, a town in the Genoese territory, ten miles west of Tortona, and twenty two northwest of Genoa.

Private letters by the Hamburg mail, received yesterday, state, that Buonaparte had made good his retreat into Egypt, and arrived at Cairo.

The official dispatch from Lord Duncan, respecting the intelligence which we gave on Saturday, of our brave troops having effected a landing in Holland, and made themselves masters of the important post of Helder, commanding the principal entrance of the Texel, were brought home by Lieut. Clay, of the Kent Man of war. Those from Sir Ralph Abercrombie and Admiral Mitchel have not yet been published; but our readers will see by the following extract from the London Gazette of Saturday, that the event is fully confirmed:

ADMIRALTY-OFFICE, AUG. 31.

Lieutenant Clay, of his Majesty's ship Kent, arrived this morning with a dispatch from Admiral Lord Duncan, K. B. to Mr. Neepean Secretary of the Admiralty, of which the following is a copy:

Kent, at anchor off the Texel,
AUGUST 23.

Sir,

Be pleased to acquaint the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that I shall go on from my letter of the 24th inst. and say it blew so fresh on Sunday that we could not approach the land, but the weather becoming more moderate on Monday the whole of the fleet with transports, were at anchor close in shore by noon on that day. I shall not enter into a detail of the landing of the troops, or what happened on Tuesday, as their Lordships will have that stated by Vice Admiral Mitchell; suffice it to say, the troops rowed towards the shore at day break, and landed though immediately opposed by numbers, and from that time till half past 4 P. M. were continually in action. However, the gallantry of the British troops surmounted all difficulties, and drove the enemy wherever they met them. The Batavian Roman ship got ashore on the South Hawk in coming to the anchorage, where she remained some time in great danger, but by timely assistance and exertion of her captain and officers, in getting out some of the guns and lightening her, she was got off; and last night reported to be fit for service.

At five P. M. the Belliqueux, with her convoy from the Downs, anchored. This day it blows strong from the westward with a great surf, so that I fear little can be done; but I am sure the vice admiral will avail himself of every opportunity to carry on the service, as I never witnessed more attention and perseverance in spite of most unfavourable weather, to get the troops landed; and nothing shall be wanting on my part towards furnishing him with every aid in my power, in order to bring the business to a happy termination.

P. S. Eight P. M. The weather is still bad; but a lugger is just returned with an answer to a letter I wrote Vice Admiral Mitchell this morning, by which I find the Helder Point was last night evacuated, and the guns in it spiked up.—The Lieutenant of the lugger likewise reported that the General and Vice-Admiral had not sent off their dispatches; and as I think it of the greatest consequence that government should have the earliest notice, I detach a cutter with this interesting intelligence, although it was my original intention only to have sent one away after the General and vice-admiral had forwarded their dispatches; and as I have not time to alter my other letter to you of this date, I beg to refer their lordships to lieutenant Clay, of his majesty's ship Kent, an intelligent and deserving officer, for further particulars.

(Signed) DUNCAN.

Evan Nepean, Esq.

TAKE NOTICE.

There will be offered

FOR SALE,

On Friday the 25th of November next,

A Lease of Land, for two lives, supposed to contain 300 acres, lying in Fairfax county, on the main road leading from Alexandria to Leesburg, and adjoining the old Court House. It is about 14 miles from Alexandria and 16 or 21 from George-Town and the city of Washington; whereon are a good dwelling house and other convenient out-houses, an apple and peach orchard. In the latter are upwards of 1400 trees; among the former are 130 winter apple trees, some of them beginning to bear fruit. This is a very healthy situation, the plantation in good repair, a sure place for fruit, and has a sufficiency of wood land. Four months' credit will be allowed the purchaser, if required, at the expiration of which time possession will be given, on payment of the purchase money.

Also, at the same time and place will be sold, sundry Stock, &c. for cash.

George-Town Ferry, Oct. 4, 1799.

CAME to this Ferry, Yesterday, a suspicious looking Negro Man, who, I am informed, had a handsome Horse, with a Saddle and Bridle, tied in the woods. On pursuing the fellow (who made his escape by running off) a Horse, of the following description, was found, viz. a bright bay, about 14¼ hands high, with one white hind foot, a star in his forehead, a small snip on the end of his nose, and a small piece has been taken off his tail, which is not yet quite well. He appears never to have been shod. The fellow, I am since informed, calls himself PETER FLEMMON, the property of John Berton, of Cumberland county, Virginia. The said Negro was some time past condemned in Alexandria, for horse-stealing; from which he was relieved. The owner of the above horse may have him by proving property and paying charges, on applying at the above Ferry.

CLEM. SEWALL.

FOR SALE,

A House and Lot,

Situated in Wales's alley, near the Brewhouse 40 feet by 39; being the corner of two alley, and so near the river, its situation for a boarding house or store, is exceeded by few, and rents at a nett yearly rent of 48l. For terms apply to

JOSIAH FAXON & Co.

THE Subscriber,

Being desirous to discharge his debts before he removes from this state,

OFFERS FOR SALE

The following Property,

TO WIT:

ALL the Land known by the name of Carr & Simp's Tract, lying to the southward of the Colchester road; on which are elegant improvements. Perhaps no lands in Virginia are possessed of more natural advantages. It is not more than one and a half mile from Alexandria. This land will be sold altogether. On the opposite side of the road, and to the northward thereof, there are about 190 acres belonging to the same tract, which I will sell by the acre, as I am not certain of the quantity. It would be most agreeable to the subscriber to sell the above at private sale.—Nine Hundred and Nine Pounds, Virginia Currency, must be paid down, and a liberal credit for the balance of the first tract, and the same in proportion for the last. An indisputable title will be given. I shall not comment on the great value of those lands, &c. as many do, because it is presumable no person, not acquainted with the premises, would purchase without viewing them. If no bargain is made before the 4th of November next, they will then be set up to the highest bidder, and the sale continued from day to day, until all are sold.

Lands for Sale, or exchange for other Property.

SEVEN hundred and eighty-eight acres in the county of Hampshire, on the waters of Great Cape Capon, about 20 miles from the Warm Springs, and 30 from Winchester.—This land is full of wood, oak and Pine Timber. Two excellent farms may be made, with 30 to 50 acres of bottom, and rich high lands to each; and in the heart of the timber there is a fine seat for a saw-mill. Capt. Daniel Rice will shew the lands.

Three thousand eight hundred and forty-five acres in the county of Ohio, on the waters of Grave and Fish creeks, near the river Ohio, and about 80 miles below Pittsburg. Some of these lands are very good, with considerable quantities of rich bottom, and plenty of excellent timber. Robert Woods, Esq. the surveyor of that county, will shew these lands.

One hundred and eighty acres, within three miles of the Warm Springs, upon Great Cape Capon, near its mouth, and within ¼ of a mile of the River Potomak. This land has about 70 to 80 acres of rich bottom, mostly in cultivation, with 70 fine sugar trees on it; from which, I am informed, there may be made 1500 lb. of good sugar annually. There is also a seat for grist and saw mills on it, equal to any in that neighbourhood, and upon a never failing stream of water. The upland is rich, with plenty of timber, and part under cultivation. This farm is well improved with a good orchard, houses and fencing, and rented last year for produce equal to sixty pounds per an. Mr. Joseph Butler, at the Warm Springs, will shew it. I will sell all, or any of the above lands for cash, or upon credit, or take in exchange for them lands in Fairfax County, or Lots of land in the town of Alexandria, or the city of Washington.
